Head of Delegation Declares Region Bank Must Be Locat- ed in One of Two Georgia Cities

Senator Will Probably Conclude Hearing by Stressing Need for Reserve District in Southeastern Section

"Personally, I think the regional bank should be in Georgia, regardless of whether it is in Savannah or Atlanta," said Joseph P. Gray, a prominent businessman for Savannah at the regional bank hearing Saturday morning in the United States court room which brought to a close argument by Chattanooga, Columbia and Birmingham attorneys based on testimony from Birmingham, where the final city to submit its claims to the organization committee.

Gray, who spoke at 2:30 o'clock, will conclude Birmingham's testimony and will end with Senator Hoke Smith's testimony. The committee, which the southeast should compose a reserve district with one southeastern city as the regional bank center of that district.

After concluding Saturday afternoon hearing, members of the organization will be entertained to a dinner at a banquet at the Capital Club by the Atlanta Clearing House association.

Speakers at the banquet will be United States Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo, United States Treasurer Charles D. Smith, United States Comptroller of Currency John Skelton Williams, the three members of the Federal Reserve Board, United States Senator Hoke Smith and Governor John M. Slaton. Robert F. Williams will act as toastmaster, and will be assisted by Colonel J. H. Lowry, president of the Atlanta Clear-

Representatives from visiting delegations will be invited to address the guests will be entertained by the association.

McAdoo and Mr. Houston will leave Atlanta probably Sunday morning for Cleveland and Cincinnati to complete their tour.

They will return from there to Washington to consider brief submissions from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People outlining the reserve districts and naming the regional boards. This decision is expected to be made by the end of the month.

The cities heard Secretary McCormack's report on the progress of the reserve districts they propose, and submitted their own proposals. They also made an argument to support their claims for a reserve district.

Wittlenses occasionally relieved the subject of the reserve districts.

The reserve districts proposed are by Columbia—Virginia, southeastern South Carolina, North Carolina, South Carolina, southeast Georgia and

By Savannah—North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.
By Birmingham—Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, and Louisiana east of the Mississippi.

Hearings of argument on the regional bank was resumed at 10 o'clock Saturday morning with a statement by Colonel Watkins, the last delegate for Chattanooga.

He began by describing the Atlantic Seaboard reserve district, which Chattanooga proposes.

"The district," he says, "embraces the central south. It is self supporting, and is ideal for states and cities of this section."

"But if we were to accept this district," interrupted Mr. McAdoo, of the organization committee, "can you show that the region is of sufficient importance to be chosen for the regional bank in that district?"

Colonel Watkins answered that Chatlanago occupies an equatorial position in the proposed Atlantic Seaboard district.

"That are not other cities in that section as important in commerce?" questioned David F. Houston, of the committee.

OTHER QUESTIONS READY.

When Colonel Watkins finished his answer, Mr. Houston was ready with another question.

"But it is true," he insisted, "that you consider Chattanooga a small center and not a trade center?"

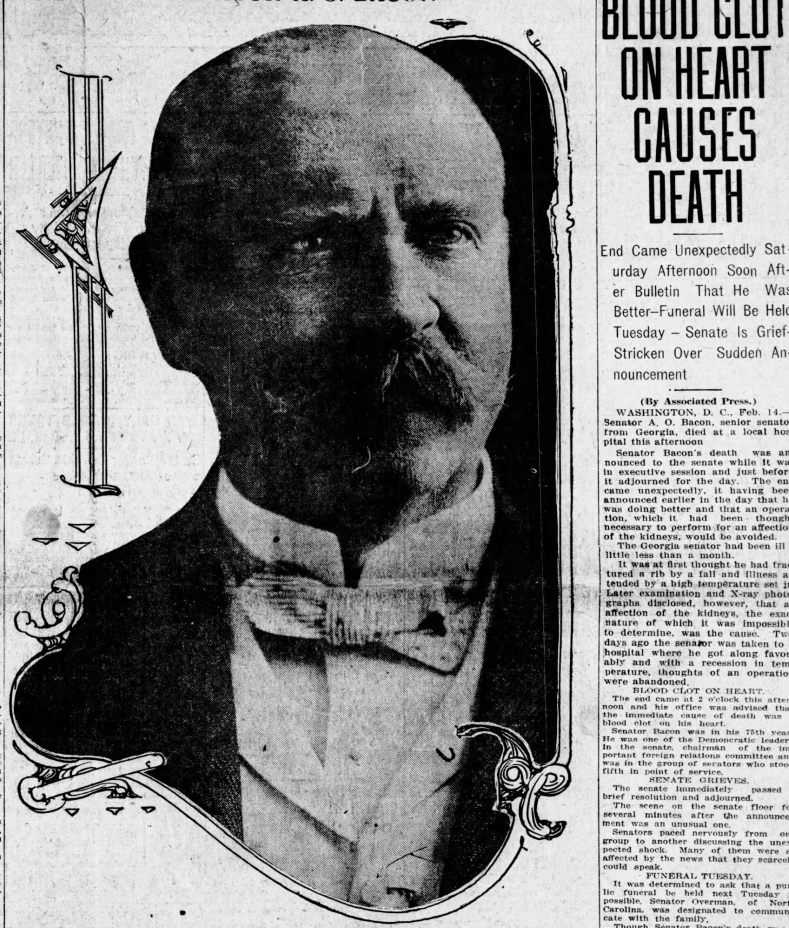

His answer was interrupted by the loud explosion of flashlight powder used by a photographer. The noise was unusual enough for all to turn in a

"We have trucking, mineral, lumber

"Our banking reason," he continues, "when the district we propose should be adopted is the fact that when other sections are borrowing we are lending and vice versa. Another reason is that the district we propose is naturally bound together by trade."

He was asked by Mr. Macdoo, of the committee, why Washington, D. C., would not suit a regional bank center.

SENATOR A. O. BACON

"HE WAS A GREAT SENATOR,"
—HOKE SMITH

Senator Hoke Smith was interrupted at luncheon in the Piedmont hotel with the information that Senator Bacon was just dead.

"What?" he exclaimed.

He was evidently much shocked.

"I am greatly distressed by this," he said, after a pause. "Private telegrams that I received last night indicated that he was better."

"Senator Bacon was a great senator. He not only represented the state, but he represented the south and the entire nation. The death of no other senator could have caused to the Democratic party so serious a loss. It is hard to estimate the value of the service he was rendering. The place he occupied in the senate with his 18 years of experience cannot be filled."

"Senator Bacon was one of the most honorable and capable men in the senate," said Vice President Marshall.

Representative Clayton Announces March 3 as Date for Considering Question

Records Show Steady Gains as Evidences of Increasing Prosperity

The slippery coating of ice made the streets and sidewalks of Atlanta dangerous and unpleasant Friday morning. The weather was expected to disappear Saturday, says Forecaster Von Herrmann.

Sunshine and little wind is scheduled for Saturday. Sunday's temperature will rise Saturday afternoon and Sunday afternoon, but Sunday morning will be very cold, the weatherman predicts.

The lowest temperature Saturday morning was 26 degrees shortly after dawn. The temperature was predicted that 22 degrees would be reached Sunday morning. There is not the slightest cloud in the sky.

Atlanta was the coldest city in Georgia Saturday. At 7 o'clock in the morning the temperature was 26 degrees, compared with 34 in Macon and August Clearly for the week and the day again show an increase over the corresponding period in 1913. For the week the gain was $1,939,157.64, and for the day $428,774.73.

The most gratifying feature of the business situation in Atlanta is that there has been an increase every week thus far in 1914. This shows that there is nothing epidemic about the condition.

The following is the comparison between the corresponding week and last year, and the week and day of the corresponding period in 1913:

End Came Unexpectedly Saturday Afternoon Soon After Bulletin That He Was Better—Funeral Will Be Held Tuesday — Senate Is Grief-Stricken Over Sudden Announcement

Later examination and X-ray photographs disclosed, however, that the affection of the kidneys, the exact nature of which it was impossible to determine, was the cause. Two days ago the senator was taken to hospital where he got along favorably and with a recession in temperature.

BLOOD CLOT ON HEART.
The end came at 2 o'clock this afternoon and his office was advised that the immediate cause of death was blood clot on his heart.

YOUR MONEY

THE INCOME TAX'S
EFFECT ON YOU.
By JOHN M. OSKISON.

You should worry, Mr. Average American, about the income tax! Not! Be you this, when you learn that before you have to make any return to the collector your income (if single) must amount to $3,000 a year, or (if married) to $4,000 a year. That certainly lets most of us out, doesn't it? And if we receive our $1,000 to $1,500 a year (which is the income of the average American) from a little

Still, there are a lot of us who are affected without our being aware of it. For instance, if we are working for a corporation whose net profit for the year is $1,000,000, our wages are going to be adjusted with the fact in view that 1 per cent of all the company's net profit will have to go to meet the income tax. If we happen to own a bond, it is probable that the corporation which put out the bond will pay the 1 per cent of the return on it, and by that much cut down its wage-paying power.

Now, a word to the fortunate few

Before March 1, 1914, you must file with the office of the collector of internal revenue (your postmaster can give you the address of the office you wish to report) a statement of your income during the ten months from March 1 to December 31, 1912. From the collector you will get a paper showing just what "exemptions" are allowed. For example, if you paid out $100 in that time as interest on a debt you owe, you could deduct that $100 from your taxable income.

If you receive the income from the corporation through dividends, you are exempt from taxation, since the corporation which issues the stocks pays

But even for the official paper from the tax collector's office and study it carefully. It won't do to take any action; it's a trap. The man is just flirting with a county board of assessors or a town tax commissioner, but are dealing with federal authorities, and the man who attempts to evade federal taxes gets into trouble!

You and I are going to help pay that income tax in some way. You know that we pay water taxes and property taxes. We may even live in a rented flat in a city, even though no tax bill ever comes directly to us. We pay it in the form of rent. We are merely fooling ourselves if we think that our share of the burden of the Income tax will not be passed on by those who actually pay it!
